

Much Adoe About Nothing (Classic Reprint)

A ugust, presumably in the year 1600, there is an entry in the Stationers Register to the effect that Much A do about Nothing and other plays, As You Like ,J lenry r. and Every Man in his Humour, were to be staled. The reason for this stay or injunction is not known ;but shortly after, on the 23rd August 1600, we find Much A do and the second part of Henry IV. entered for Andrew Wyse and William A spley, and both plays were printed for them, in this same year, by V. S. V alentine Sims. As regards the Publishers of these two Plays, I do not find in the British Museum Catalogue of Early English Books that Wise and A spley had ever any other partnership relations. Wise appears to have been in business from 1594 to 1602. During the years 1597-1599 he published the first two Qo. editions of each of the three plays, Richard ., Richard III. and ist Pt. of Henry IV., and, in 1602, a third edition of Richard III. On the 25th Jan. 1603 he transferred his right in all three to Matthew Law, by whom nine subsequent editions (2 of Richard IL ;3 of Richard III, and 4of Henry IV. Pt. i) were published prior to their appearance in the first Folio. In view of these numerous publications it is a singular but unexplained fact that no second quarto editions of two such popular plays as Much A do and 2H enry IV. should have been issued. A spley is shown by the Catalogue above-mentioned to have been in business from 1599 to 1630; his name appears on the title-page of some copies of the Sonnets, 1609, as the bookseller, and in 1623 he was one of the four booksellers at whose charges the first Po. ed. of Shakespeare s Plays was printed (see Colophon of that vol.). The two plays with which he was specially connected made their appearance in that volume under very different circumstances; for while, as we shall see, Muc Ji A do was little more than a reprint of the Qo., it is very dou(Typographical errors above are
