

Paediatric Toxicology: Handbook of Poisoning in Children

Poisoning in children accounts for the majority of all poisoning accidents. However information about poisoning of children by drugs, household products and by plants and animals is often limited but certainly scattered over several sources. This book will bring this data all together in one volume. Each entry will cover the same type of data in the same order; for example, the entry rodenticides will initially cover all the action points to be checked through first and then provide: description/use; toxicity; discussion; clinical effects; treatment; references.
